Reject the Lie of the #FourthofJuly!

Neither Africans, nor Natives, nor any peoples exploited and brutalized by American settler colonialism knew freedom at the inception of this so-called holiday in 1776. The exploitation and murder of our ancestors continued unabated as the myth of this country was born. Join May Day 505 at Phil Chacon Park, 1098 Louisiana Blvd SE, on Wednesday July 4, Noon-5pm as we celebrate the #FourthoftheLie: an afternoon of revolutionary speakers, music, delicious shared food (with vegan options), flag burning and international and working class solidarity against oppression. Join us at the park as we expose the lie of American Independence Day and continue to build Albuquerque's movement for social justice and against imperialism, capitalism, and colonialism - all while having a great time with good food on a beautiful day. This event is free and open to all: families, children, elders, LGBTQ folks, and pets welcome!

May Day 505 is a grassroots coalition of radical community organizations based in Albuquerque, consisting of ABQ IWW, Black Rose / Rosa Negra - ABQ, All African People's Revolutionary Party – NM, Building Power for Black New Mexico, Albuquerque Chapter of the Democratic Socialists of America, and The Red Nation.

Would someone from your organization be willing to host any of the youth? If so, please email me back or call me at (505)304-5652. You can also email the director of Global One to One- Sarah Wilkinson at sarah.global1to1@gmail.com. The Place My Lovers Meet: Artist Statement by Jean Argenta for July Exhibit

Life drawing savant Frederick Frank says, “They know not what they do, for they see not what they look at.” Art is first and foremost a site of communion and truth telling in which one is, for perpetuity, a student. Every line tells a story of where you've been, and of whom you've loved.

If a work is true, it is less about product or mastery, and much more about awe, participation, and disciplined practice—a kind of love-in-action reaching in many directions at once. As such, is a site to decode power and control in trade for a much more interesting reality: the vastness of our human inheritance and capacity for reaching out.

“The Place My Lovers Meet” draws from two seemingly contradictory artistic traditions. The first is the formal figurative works I learned at my parent's hands; one a sculptor, one a ceramicist and painter. The second is Islamic Calligraphy, which I studied during the recent coup attempt in Istanbul and continue to practice to this day. My work explores these traditional forms and their intersections in complicated modern contexts and media, seeking an aesthetic where sociopolitical inquiries and spiritual practices need not shroud or compete with the offerings of the other. My friend, in the slightest move of a pen, many lovers breathe, informing, and guiding those subtle movements. And there are so many conversations to be had.

Jena Argenta was born in her father's ceramic studio and learned her mother's charcoal line before she could breathe. She studied fine art at Sarah Lawrence College and oil painting in Santiago, Chile. She is working toward an ijaza (diploma) in Islamic Calligraphy in the Thuluth script with Elinor Aishah Holland in New York and Ahmet Bursali in Istanbul. She has been privately and commercially commissioned in Mexico, Puerto Rico, and across the US. She is currently working on a wearable line exploring intersections of text, tradition, modernity, and personhood.

The opening art reception will be held on Friday, July 13, 5:30-7:00pm at the Peace Center. Exhibit will be on display July 12-Aug. 19. Artist contact: jargenta@gm.slc.edu

Note: We are currently seeking people to serve on the Art Exhibit Coordinating Committee. Huge thanks to Amy Sedillo for coordinating our exhibits this past year while you were a student and understand your need to step down due to your work schedule. If you are interested, contact Outreach Coordinator Sue Schuurman via abqpeaceandjusticecenter@gmail.com.

Resiliency Workshop

The next Resiliency Workshop is Wednesday, July 18, 6-8pm at the P&J Center. These times call for us to stay strong, creative and positive that we have the power to change things for the common good! Having good health and stamina are great gifts for not only ourselves but also our communities.

Take a breath and feel the physical sensation of these words for the next minute: nowhere you have to go…nothing you have to do…nothing you have to know…not even anybody you have to be…just this moment, the present.

Research shows people who take time to reflect, meditate, and still the mind are more resilient in times of stress. Even 10 minutes a day creates a shift in the brain, opening neural pathways to the PCN, the Present Centered Network. So much of the time we live in the default network, the lower brain where we operate from a place of memory, stuck in the past or projecting into the future. When you become present, a shift out of the lower brain occurs and we reconnect to that part of ourselves that is whole, doesn’t need changing or fixing, and is connected to the energy source of being human. Fear falls away and the mind quiet, a sense of peacefulness can come through.

Come take a time out. Sheila Fox, acutonics sound healer and meditation teacher can assist in calming your mind and raising your energy level by placing harmonious tuning forks on acupuncture points and chakra energy centers. Learn simple tools like acupressure and holds to reduce pain and stress. Be guided in a short iRest® Yoga Nidra meditation. Sing a song, play a drum, eat yummy and healthy snacks, socialize a bit and lighten up.

This class is appropriate for ages 8-98; all levels are welcome. A donation is gratefully appreciated but not required. RSVP is nice; call or text Sheila at 206-898-5090, or notablehealing.com/contact. Also check out notablehealing.com/recordings for free downloads of quick and easy meditations!

Solidarity Beyond Borders: History, Occupation and Family Separation

Indigenous Rights Center hosts Solidarity Beyond Borders: History, Occupation, and Family Separation, an educational forum, Friday, July 27, 7-9pm at the Peace Center. We will discuss the history of child detention and family separation from different vantage points throughout history, including during slavery, boarding school and fostering under the forced assimilation of Native Americans, occupation and mass incarceration in Palestine, and Trump policies separating undocumented families. We will examine how the prison industrial complex exacerbates the epidemic of mass incarceration. Featured speakers are from NM Dream Team, All African Revolutionary Peoples Party, NM Immigrant Law Center, The Red Nation, voices from Palestine and more. This forum will provide great opportunities to build a solidarity movement between struggles targeted by US Empire. We are uniting to fight back Trump policies that are continuing a long history of capitalist extermination of oppressed peoples in a White supremacist society! The event is free and open to the public, and snacks and refreshments will be provided.

Sponsors: Indigenous Rights Center, New Mexico Dream Team, All African Revolutionary Peoples Party, New Mexico Immigrant Law Center and The Red Nation. For more info: therednation.org

Update on Solar Installations for Gaza

Jeff Haas, from PAJOLA group Santa Feans for Justice in Palestine, passed along this message from Ziad Abbas, of Middle East Children’s Alliance (MECA):

Thanks to all of you who donated to MECA during Dr. Mona El-Farra’s visit in December. We raised over $15,000 and have provided new or amplified lighting for almost 200 families and homes in Khuza’a, on the outskirts of Gaza City. These photographs show their installation led by Amal Abu Moailqu. She is MECA’s engineer in Gaza and the leader of the Lights for Gaza Project providing lighting for homes currently receiving 2 hours of electricity for light each day. We and MECA are providing either new solar installations or amplification of existing electric power to extend lighting. Thanks to the installers as well. Young Women United Training on Reproductive Justice

Young Women United will facilitate an activity to explore the need for the reproductive justice movement through a timeline of women's health and wellness in the United States. We will explore and discuss the timeline together, around food and community at the Peace Center, Thursday, July 19, 5:30-7:30pm. This is part of the Peace Center's ongoing anti-racism trainings. All are welcome; for more info: 831-8930.

Young Women United (YWU) leads policy change, research, place-based community organizing, and culture shift by and for women and people of color in New Mexico. We work to build communities where all people have access to the information, education, and resources needed to make real decisions about our own bodies and lives. Our change-making strategies come from deeply rooted reproductive justice values that recognize the intersections of people’s lives. We build our work at the intersection of those identities, while centering the expertise of those most impacted by an issue. More info: youngwomenunited.org and “youngwomenunitedNM” on Facebook.
