Sierra Club & Root Beer Immigration Discussion

The Sierra Club holds an animated discussion on immigration - meet people engaged in confronting the results of today’s immigration policies – ABQ hands on! We invite you to take a walk through a mosaic of issues relating to current immigration policies: Sanctuary in our city, Direct Service to our immigrant community, Dreamers, DACA, ICE’s uninvited presence in our court system, asylum seekers presenting themselves at the border and being put in detention… What is all this? Who is welcoming our neighbors, or providing them with needed legal information to understand how to navigate the immigration system? Local volunteers, including grassroots leaders, attorneys, and activists will give us a glimpse of their work at our local level to counteract the inhumane and unpredictable immigration system. Friday, November 2, 6-8pm at the Peace Center. Presentation starts at 6:15pm sharp. For more info, contact Cecilia: 319-7556

Vets for Peace ABQ presents

The Heart of the Homefront

Sunday, Nov. 4, 6:30-8:30pm at the Peace Center

We are the veterans and military families who have served and sacrificed for our country. We have spent 17 years fighting and dying and getting wounded in action. We have spent a lifetime burying children, grieving parents, mourning spouses and siblings, and caring for wounded warriors. We have borne the burden of war for too long. So let’s talk about love, America: love for our families, our troops and veterans. Love for our country and our planet. Let's talk about what it's like to lose someone you love to a war that never should have happened; to a war that should be over. Let's talk about a love big enough to end these wars...

Holding the vision of unity for life, we bring the medicine of the drum to connect our hearts. With open hearts, we will share the sacrifices made by women. Women bear the children and bury the children. We call upon the women to bring a new way of moving forward as a nation, as a people ready to put the weapons down and stop sacrificing our children, our wives and husbands who live a life of pain. We call for an end to the endless cycle of abuse created when veterans return from war, and the trauma leads them to inflict more violence upon themselves or those who love them: their spouses and children. War is not over when coming home.

We know the Iraq war was wrong. We know our time in Afghanistan is up. Let’s have a heart2heart about how to bring our troops home without one more folded flag. Let us begin to heal our hearts as we speak the truth about our national history of violence so we can find a new way forward as a people deeply invested in peace.

Veterans for Peace members share many similar experiences and characteristics as these veterans. Some of our group are dealing with the aftermaths of war time, cold war and peace time events or have relatives that deal with such issues. We also discuss “love, war and enough folded flags.” Created by Stacy Bannerman, founder and CEO, Women’s EcoPeace, and Eli Painted Crow, co-founder, Turtle Women Rising. Local contacts: Charles Powell, 271-9274 and Ravi Wadhwani, (310) 906-9217.

NM Women’s Global Pathways Holds Ubuntu Cultural Fusion Benefit Show

New Mexico Women's Global Pathways (NMWGP), a local grass roots nonprofit, is now an educational, micro-enterprise, social services flagship program of the Immigrant and Refugee Resource Village of Albuquerque (IRRVA), a nonprofit with a 501c3 status and also a PAJOLA group. To help raise funds for IRRVA/NMWGP, around 14 African refugee and African American girls are organizing an Ubuntu Cultural Fusion Show. They will dance, drum, sing and model simple creations that they make at the NMWGP center. They will also serve Afro-centric light cuisine as part of the admission fee. This is a great sacrifice on the part of these girls, for they could be raising funds to benefit themselves and their families. That event will be at a 115-seat theater of VSA’s North 4th Art Center (4904 Fourth St. NW), Saturday, Nov. 17, 6-9pm. Tickets at the door only: adults $30, seniors $20 and children $10. Contact: Nkazi Sinandile: 435-5741.
The No-No Boy Project visits NM

New Mexico Arts presents The No-No Boy Project, a multimedia concert performed by singer/songwriter and ethnomusicologist Julian Saporiti and Erin Aoyama, both PhD Students at Brown University. Taking inspiration from interviews with World War II Japanese incarceration camp survivors, his own family’s history living through the Vietnam War, and many other stories of Asian American experience, Saporiti has transformed his doctoral research into folk songs in an effort to bring these stories to a broader audience. Alongside Aoyama, whose family was incarcerated at Heart Mountain, WY, one of the 10 Japanese American concentration camps, No-No Boy aims to shine a light on experiences that have remained largely hidden in the American consciousness. Join them for a free workshop exploring the intersection of art and scholarship Monday, Nov. 5, 2-3:30pm at the P&J. The full No-No Boy concert will be performed Sunday, Nov. 4, 3pm at FU-SION Forum (708 First St. NW) and Tuesday, Nov. 6 at the NM History Museum in Santa Fe. Julian and Erin will be in New Mexico Nov. 4-7, and are excited about the opportunity to do some research about the NM interment camps. The themes of the project often resonate with other communities with similar traumatic histories, including Native communities. More info: nonoboymusic.tumblr.com

2018 Border Encuentro

Nov. 16-18 in Nogales, Arizona & Nogales, Mexico

As we prepare for the 2018 School of Americas Watch Border Encuentro in both Nogales’ (the border towns of Nogales, AZ and Nogales, Sonora MX) Friday-Sunday, Nov. 16-18, we continue to draw inspiration from those who have accompanied SOA Watch for almost three decades through vigils, protests, speaking out in the halls of Congress, and disrupting the system through civil disobedience and nonviolent direct action. For 26 years we were present at the gates of Ft. Benning, GA, and for the past two years we have been in ambos Nogales, Arizona/Sonora, to continue our work to close the School of the Americas (SOA) / Western Hemisphere Institute for Security and Cooperation (WHINSEC) by shining a spotlight on the disastrous effects of U.S. intervention at the U.S./Mexico border.

Our move to the borderlands responds to our present-day call to solidarity with Latin America. The legacy of U.S. militarization and intervention are intimately linked to the root causes of migration. We recognize the devastating impact U.S. security, political, and economic policies, and the current Border Imperialism strategies, have on migrants, refugees, indigenous communities, and communities of color across borders. Now in its third year, the SOA Watch Border Encuentro seeks to increase awareness of the militarization and expansion of borders throughout Mesoamerica and throughout the world.

From Hondurans suffering mass political repression, murder, and disappearances as a U.S.-backed and SOA grad-led coup regime seeks to retain power, to the Internal Security Law passed in Mexico that guarantees impunity to the Mexican security forces, or the culture of impunity that has allowed the killing of at least 97 people at the hands of the Border Patrol, we maintain our commitment to active solidarity with the communities in resistance all over the Americas. To register or for more info: soaw.org/border/border-encuentro

Bosquitos Film Screening with Wildlife Biologist Dave Parsons

The Bosquitos, the youth-centered group of the Sierra Club’s Bosque Action Team, will screen The Right to Be Wild, a film about Mexican Wolves, with Q&A by Wildlife Biologist Dave Parsons. This event will be held Saturday, Nov. 24, at the Peace Center. Doors open at 6pm with slices of pizza for sale, and the film starts at 6:30pm. David Parsons is a career Wildlife Biologist who from 1990-’99 led the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service’s effort to restore Mexican Gray Wolves to the wild. The evening will include kids’ activities, along with the film that is about 40 minutes long. Call Sarita at (505) 288-8713 for more info.

Vets for Peace ABQ to Ring Bell for 100th Anniversary of Armistice Day

The First World War (July 1914-Nov. 1918) involved more than 70 million military personnel in two opposing alliances and was one of the largest and deadliest conflicts in history. More than 9 million combatants and 7 million civilians died; another 20 million were wounded.

Bells were rung worldwide on November 11, 1918 to celebrate and recognize the ending of WWI, “The war to end all wars,” and to commemorate that pledge, bells were rung each Nov. 11 for over 35 years. Legislation passed in 1938, making Nov. 11 an official holiday, “dedicated to the cause of world peace and to be hereafter celebrated and known as Armistice Day.” In 1954, the 1938 Act was amended, replacing the word “Armistice” with “Veterans.” November 11 became a day to honor American veterans of all wars, and bell ringing has now been largely forgotten.

In recent years, Veterans for Peace Chapters across the country have tried to restore the Armistice to Veterans Day by tolling bells at the 11th hour. For several years in Albuquerque, The Donald & Sally-Alice Thompson Chapter of Veterans for Peace has been asked by the United Veterans Council of NM to ring a bell eleven times at 11am, on the 11th day of the 11th month for the Veterans Day ceremony at the NM Veterans Memorial, 1100 Louisiana Blvd. SE. The big bell on wheels, provided by the UNM Alumni Lettermen’s Association, weighs over 200 lbs. The ringing of a bell is an appropriate way to honor all military and civilian victims of war, to recognize veterans and active military service members, and to acknowledge the human spirit’s eternal longing for peace.

This year will mark the 100th Anniversary of the first Armistice Day. To help make this year’s commemoration special, our chapter of Veterans For Peace is asking all churches across NM to educate their congregations on the original meaning of Armistice Day and for churches with bells to toll those bells 11 times at 11 am on Veterans Day, Sunday, Nov. 11, 2018.
